Presenter: Dra. Felisha Herrera Villarreal (SDSU)

The mission of the Research and Equity Scholarship Institute on Student Trajectories in Education (<https://resiste.sdsu.edu/>) at San Diego State University is to promote scientific and applied research, training, and the exchange of information that contribute to the knowledge and understanding of P-20 educational trajectories and the contexts that engage and support students from diverse backgrounds. In this workshop, we invite STEM faculty, staff, and administrators to learn more about our NSF-funded projects (HSI-STEM DUE-1832528 and ED-SYSTEMS DUE-1644990). With a specific focus on the role of community colleges and Hispanic-Serving Institutions (HSIs), we will facilitate conversations about (1) the challenges faced by underrepresented students in STEM; (2) strategies for creating learning environments that are collaborative and inclusive of underrepresented students in STEM; and (3) strategies for establishing partnerships and collaborations to advocate for underrepresented students in STEM (e.g., within/across institutions, community and industry).

- 6) DEBER (Developing Effective Bilingual Educators with Resources): Changing the Face of Teacher Education (Mon, Oct.5 @ 11am-12pm) FLEX#5648, Zoom <https://cccconfer.zoom.us/j/95517352045?pwd=RXpucGRjck9QT2dXcHJXakFWSkxtUT09>

Presenter: Prof. Jorge Villalobos (English & ESL)

In Spanish, "deber" means a duty. It is a responsibility to serve one's community. Currently, in California, schools are experiencing a shortage of bilingual teachers. The DEBER Scholars Program prepares diverse students to become teachers who choose to teach in school districts in their own communities. Prospective students who imagine a career teaching, inspiring, and changing future students' lives, and who are bilingual, with developing Spanish/English biliteracy are supported by the DEBER program in achieving their dreams! Join DEBER program leaders and student/scholars who will share their experiences and motivation to become teachers, and the struggles they encounter in changing the face of teacher education. In San Diego, if you want to be a teacher, you come to Mesa College. ¿Qué dicen? See you there!
