

October 2015

View this email in your browserColleagues:

Here we are in harvest season, a time to reap what we have sown and enjoy the change of seasons. As we wend our way into soups and sweaters, I hope you'll have a chance to enjoy the beginning of autumn. I am inspired by our work together as we create the conditions for our students to be successful.

Here's a snapshot of what's happening on the Mesa...

The "Celebrando de Familia" kicked off the Mesa College month-long program for Hispanic Heritage Month. The college and our community enjoyed a wonderful evening of dance, singing, music and family fun. It was a beautiful evening in the quad, and enhanced our feeling of familia while learning about and celebrating our hispanic cultural heritage.

More events are planned for this month; check out the events calendar for more information.

New Classroom Tutoring Program Gets Under Way!

Mesa has launched its Classroom Tutoring pilot. The Classroom Tutor Program is an academic assistance program that increases student performance and retention. Funded by our HSI-Title V grant, Classroom Tutors (CTs) provide free weekly review sessions to students enrolled in a targeted historically difficult course. CT sessions are interactive review sessions that incorporate course content (what to learn) and study strategies (how to learn). Student attendance is voluntary. The CT Program aims:

- To increase retention within targeted historically difficult courses
- To improve student grades in targeted historically difficult courses
- To increase the graduation rates of students

Mesa currently is piloting the CTs in nine classes (English 43, 47A, 48 and 101, Math 92, and Astronomy 101). For more information please contact the CT coordinators Sim Barhoum or Brad Hughes.

SDCCD and Mesa College win Landscape Architecture Orchid Award for Math + Science Gardens

We were fortunate to win the San Diego Architecture Foundation Orchid for Landscape Design for the beautiful gardens surrounding the Math + Science building. Kudos to Leslie Seiger, without whom none of the 3 gardens would have been possible, Don Barrie, the genius behind the geowalls, with a special nod to Ray Rector who spent his own time and vehicles collecting the necessary stones in the walls, and to Donna Budzynski and Bill Brothers who co-chaired of the decade long building committee. Thanks to our landscape design team of Wimmer, Yamada and Caughey who worked alongside our faculty to bring the vision to life.

FALL FEST 5K 2015

New Website

On Friday, Sept. 25, San Diego Mesa College launched its new website. The new design features functional and design elements that improve the user experience, especially for students. Highlights include:

- Easy, intuitive navigation
- Expanded academic information pages, which link to the catalog, program

- requirements, prerequisites, and class descriptions
- Direct links to student services and campus life pages
- Expanded events calendar
- New campus directory

The project was led by VP Rachelle Agatha, PIO Lina Heil, Web Developer Joel Arias, and the Web Advisory Group: Anabel Pulido, Bri Hayes, Danene Brown, David Fierro, Ginger Davis, Hank Beaver, Karen Owen, Penny Hedgecoth, Sara Beth Cain, Susan Topham, Taj Krumholz, Veronica Gerace, and student Minsun Jung, as well as input from those that filled out surveys, and the nearly 100 program content managers and editors who received training and helped to develop their pages.

After just a few weeks, improvements have been added such as a feedback function on each page to measure and improve user experience. The internal and external Google search features are now functional and will improve as Google continues to index the site. Additional features, including a newsroom and an “Ask Mesa” intelligent response system, will launch later this fall. Training sessions will continue each Friday; contact Joel at x2955.

Last week we shared in the shock and sorrow of the shooting at Umpqua Community College in Oregon. Our Chancellor wrote an open email to the SDCCD community last week in support of all of us, and our colleagues in Oregon. It is indeed sobering to grapple with this level of violence, and that it occurred on a community college campus.

Also shared was a link to a video that we have used in training for active shooter scenarios. I have embedded it here for those who would like to review it.

There is so much to do and see this month, including the Mesa College Theater Company production The Elephant Man, Archtoberfest, and so much more. Find your way to our new Events Calendar to check out all of the activities on the Mesa.

I hope to see you at one of our many October events. As always there we are a buzz of activity and there's something for everyone. Enjoy the moderate temps and here's to embracing the change of seasons and enjoying those soups and sweaters.
