

Independent Colleges and Universities that Accept IGETC

Alliant International University/United States International University: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern.

Azusa Pacific University: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern.

Biola University: will accept IGETC or the CSU General Education Breadth as an alternative to their General Education pattern. Biola also requires 12 semester units of Foreign Language for the Bachelor's degree. Some majors will require additional major-specific general education courses in addition to IGETC.

California Lutheran University (CLU): will accept IGETC (for CSU or UC) as an alternative to their General Education Pattern but will still require a speaking intensive course (if the student didn't take it as part of IGETC), a Foreign Language course, and an upper division Religion course. Students must be IGETC certified prior to enrolling at CLU to have their remaining General Education requirements waived. The speaking intensive and foreign language courses do not need to be completed prior to enrollment.

Chapman University: will accept IGETC or the CSU General Education Breadth as an alternative to their General Education pattern.

Cogswell Polytechnical College: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern.

College of Notre Dame, Belmont: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern.

Concordia University: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern.

Dominican College of San Rafael: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern.

Hawaii Pacific University: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern

Holy Names College: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern. All coursework applicable to the IGETC must be completed in its entirety prior to transfer and certified.

John F. Kennedy University: will accept IGETC or the CSU General Education Breadth as an alternative to their General Education pattern.

Menlo College: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern.

Saint Mary's College: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern.

Scripps College: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern but also requires 3 semesters of foreign language.

University of La Verne: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern.

University of San Francisco: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern. All coursework applicable to the IGETC must be completed in its entirety prior to transfer and certified.

University of the Pacific: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern.

Vanguard University of Southern California: will accept IGETC (for CSU or UC) as an alternative to their General Education Pattern but will still require some additional requirements that will not be met by IGETC.

Woodbury University: will accept IGETC as an alternative to their General Education Pattern. No foreign language is required. Additional major-specific General Education requirements may also need to be satisfied.