IV. Public Comments:

A. Candace Katungi – Spring 2022 San Diego Mesa College Research Conference:

As reported by Candace Katungi:

The annual Mesa College Research Conference (MCRC) is coming back to campus in spring 2022. We want to encourage you all to reach out to your students now to let them know about the opportunity and also think about ways you might be able to encourage participation in your own classes. The MCRC Planning Group will be sending a flyer out on the DL that you can share with your students soon. We welcome participation from all disciplines!

MCRC will be on May 13, 2022. Applications will be due on March 25, 2022.

B. Statement from the District Student Textbook Affordability Committee:

As reported by Alison Gurganus:

It is crucial for Faculty to provide book orders even if students don't use the bookstore.

Faculty who use no-cost materials or OER need to complete the supplemental form in the email from the bookstore. If they need help they can call Scott or Rob at the bookstore and easily provide their information over the phone.

If there is no information - the course will be marked as ZTC potentially starting in spring 2022.

This is part of Senate Bill 1359 which requires textbook information be available to students when they register for classes.

Zero Textbook Cost degree pathways update- Mesa students can now complete general education as zero textbook cost pathway - there are multiple course offerings for all the required areas to meet Mesa's requirements. Art History is the first ZTC pathway at Mesa - students can complete the degree with no textbook costs.
