What do you like best about your job?

There are many aspects I love about working at Mesa. Working in Financial Aid is challenging and stressful, but rewarding. I hold the distinction of being the longest serving staff member in the Financial Aid office here at Mesa and have had the joy of being a pivotal part of helping thousands of students achieve their academic goals by working on the Financial Aid team over my years. Coordinating the Work Study program is very special to me, having been on the ground floor of developing the program to what it is today.
